

November 2013 Statement

Ovid cannot claim full ADA compliance through OvidSP because of the limitations associated with web-based browser technology. However, third-party products do exist which will provide some elements of ADA compliance with the Ovid product. Ovid attempts to do everything it can to make such software usable with its product, e.g. using alternate text for graphics; and browser-compliant font adjustments, however because of the nature of the environment there are limits to what is possible.
